A Message From The Kentucky Shorthorn Association

With the great cattle producing areas of the West reeling under the most severe winter experienced in two decades, livestock experts are beginning to turn their eyes toward the South as the logical point of expansion for our rapidly declining bovine population . . . a decline that in the last decade has thrown off balance our healthy ratio between human population and beef cattle population.

Tremendous improvement has already been made in pasture conditions in the South, and we look for much greater pasture improvement in the next decade. The need for more purebred livestock is apparent to all.

No breed of cattle is as ideally suited for Southern agriculture as is the Shorthorn. Commercial breeders who know that beef must be sold by the pound appreciate the fact that in the modernization of Shorthorn type, Shorthorn breeders have not gone to the extreme of producing undersized frames. This important weight for age factor is creating an unprecedented demand for Shorthorns among cattlemen who must make each purchase pay dividends.

Add to this, the traditional ability of the Shorthorn cow to produce enough milk for maximum development of a healthy beef calf and you can understand the reason for our rapid expansion.

Kentucky was the cradle of the Shorthorn breed. Good Shorthorns have grazed its blue grass for generations. You have no doubt noticed the many top cattle from the best shows and sales that have been coming to Kentucky, in the last five years especially. This has been a great contributing factor to the excellence of the 1949 offering.

The Kentucky Shorthorn Breeders' Assn. is ready to expand its operation many times fold in the next few years. Now is the time to establish a top-notch herd. Attend this sale and join our ranks.

Killearn Norseman 3d is the impressive son of the Perth reserve champion, Norseman. Lot 1 is a son of this bull.

Lodestar's Rodney—A dark red son of Braedoon's Lodestar, a very soggy type calf from our outstanding Lavender family. His dam has produced more show individuals than any cow in the herd. He should make an outstanding bull.

She also features the service of our young imported-in-dam herd bull, Sunset Commando, from the Otis A. Carter & Son herd. Bred Aug. 31, 1948. Watch this outstanding buy.

KENTUCKY SHORTHORNS FORGE AHEAD!

Sni-A-Bar Randolph, twice reserve champion at the great International Livestock Show. Also champion at every state fair in which he was exhibited in 1947. Brown-Forman Experimental Farm purchased him for $7,500 at the Sni-A-Bar dispersion. He is one of the many great bulls that have come to Kentucky in recent years. Buyers at this sale will have the opportunity to purchase his blood, as Owsley Brown is selling two females safely in calf to him. If you doubt that they will have great calves, see the excellent calves from his first crop now at Ashbourne Farms.

FIFTEEN BULLS . . . Every one the kind that will make friends for Shorthorns. Excellent herd bull prospects for the best purebred herds, and rugged stock bulls for commercial breeders who want to top the market with weight-for-age calves. THIRTY-EIGHT FEMALES . . . every one a choice foundation specimen.

Bowling Green, Kentucky, was chosen because it was easily accessible to all points south. The cattle in this sale were chosen to strengthen and found great Shorthorn herds. Don't miss this show and sale.

Kentucky was the cradle of the Shorthorn breed in this country. The cattle in this sale represent generations of progressive breeding. No state has been more active in the importation of the finest Shorthorn stock. Check the records of leading Ontario sales, the International Congress sales, the Edellyn sales, the Sni-A-Bar Dispersion, the Maxwalton Dispersion and many others.

Ideal For The American Farm . . .

Shorthorn females with their inherent ability to give sufficient milk to raise a healthy beef calf are ideal for the American farm. Remember too that Shorthorns give you that all important weight for age. That is why they are gaining rapidly in popularity with alert cattlemen who must make every purchase pay. Shorthorn expansion in the South is just beginning. Now is the time to further or strengthen your herd. Put a group of cattle like these in your pasture.

Fairy Myrtle's Hilda is a heifer of the ideal type. She is the type we like to retain in the herd. In fact we haven't a single female in our consignment that isn't the type we like for breeding. She is a descendant of the famous Myrtle family so cherished by S. R. Alexander & Son. She was one of our top show individuals last fall as a calf.

SHORTHORN FEEDERS WIN AGAIN!

At the great National Western Livestock Exposition in Denver held in January of this year, Shorthorn feeder calves again won the grand champion carlot of feeders over all breeds. This was one of the greatest shows of feeder calves ever held.

Not only did the Shorthorn champions establish a new world's record price of 77 cents a pound, but three of the top four high selling loads in this show of 120 carloads were Shorthorns. Pictured above is one of those loads bred and exhibited by Carnahan Bros., Elbert, Colorado. Note the uniformity of this group, their modern type, thickness and wide loins. What's more . . . they have that all important weight for age.
